ACT NO. V OF 1908.*

RECEIVED THE G. G.'s ASSENT ON THE 21st MARCH, 1908. An Act to cansolidate and amend the laws relating to the Procedure of Lord Chancellor, Lord Halsbury in Vagliano v. Bank of England, 60 L. J. O B. 145=64 L. T. 353=39 W. R. 657=(1851) A C 102 at p. 107, must be borne in mind. There he observed: "I am wholly unable to adopt the view that, where a statute is expressly said to codify the law, you are at liberty to go outside the Code, so created, because before the existence of that Code another law prevailed " In the same case at p 144, Lord Herschell also observed: "The proper course is in the first instance to examine the language of the statute and to ask, what is its natural meaning, uninfluenced by any considerations derived from the previous state of the law, and not to start with enquiry how the law previously stood and then assuming that it was probably intended to leave it unaltered, to see if the words of the enactment will bear an interpretation in conformity with this view. If a statute, intended to embody in a Code a particular branch of the law, is to be treated in this fashion, it appears to me that its utility will be almost destroyed and the very object with which it was enacted will be frus raied. The purpose of such a statute surely was that on any point specifically dealt with by it, the law should be ascertained by interpreting the language used instead of, as before, by roaming over

Bal Cole Sections 35, 39 41 4" 3 42. Kules 1-9 bare been declared in In construing an Act of Parliament which is a consolidating Act and does not profess to amend or after the provisions of the Acts, consolidated, prima facile the same filters and to be given to its provisions as was given to those of the Act for which it was a bathiutted. Matchet's Straphan, 25 Q B. D. 183. In Redgett, Cooper which it was particularly to the provisions which it was provided by the Act for which it was provided by the Act for the Act of Chancellor's observations in Bank of England V. Poglands (1891) A. C. 144, with reference to the Ibills of Exchange Act, cooldying the law, the proper rule of interpretation is to read the Act and to interpret also provisions without reference to previous decisions or to previous legislation, that being a grama fact rule only to which there would be reasonable exceptions. As the Lord Chancellor said; "I am of course far from asserting that resort may never be had to the previous state of the law for the purpose of adding in the construction of the provisions of the Code." Then he gives some examples, which I need not cite at length. But I have here to deal, not with an Act of Parliament coddrying the law, but with an Act to amend and to contain the taw, and therefore at is I say those observations do not apply, and I think it is legitimate in the interpretation of the sections in this amending and consolidating Act to refer to the previous state of the law for the purpose of ascertaining the untention of the Legislation."

Construction Imposed by statutes—When a cluse in an Act which has received a judicial interpretation is re-canacted in the same terms, the Legislaure is deemed to have adopted that interpretation. Cambbell, Exparts in rs, 5 L. R. Ch. 703-23 L. T. 252-18 W. R. 1056; Balmukum Duk, in the goods of A. l. R. 1030 All, 512-126 Ind Cas. 357. The Legislature must be presumed to have known the interpretation put by the Courts and others on the terms of a statue and when a provision of an earlier statue is re-enacted in practically the same language in a little statute, it is legislature recognization of the correctness of the earlier interpretation, it is legislature recognizion of the correctness of the earlier interpretation of the construction of the construction placed upon the provisions of the Code has been recognized to the construction successive Codes—in a construction of the Code has been recognized to the construction of C. This rule is based on the maxim Novam Constitution Justice 18 and impanted debet non-pratter tin (A new rule ought to be prospective, not retrospective, in its operation) Moon v. During a F. V. 10 a. R. 1927 All. 657; see also 17 C. L. J. 316=17 C. W. N. 980; 30 C. W. N. 18. The general principle, indeed, seems to be that afterations in the procedure are always restrospective, unless there be some good reason against it. Per Lord Blackburn in Gardney v. Lucas, 3 App Cas. 603; Kimbray v. Drafer L. R. 3 Q. B. 160. But a new procedure would be presumably inapplicable, when it sapplication would prejudice rights established under the old. Phoenix Bessemer Co., Ex. p. 45 L. J. Ch. 11. A statute which affects only the procedure would apply to pending actions Jaga Mohan v. Behari, 39 C. W. N. 1006 The general rule is well-established that an amana----ncy of a suit does not affect pending

. the Act as it existed at the time . I. R. 1935 Bom. 257. But it can not be laid down that a hitgan his a vested right to the continuance of the tribunal before which he originally seeks his relief. When an Act or Regulation giving a special jurisdiction is repealed, parties cannot claim as of right that that jurisdiction must continue under the new Act or Regulation. 1935 A L. J. 18.

Preamble,-The preamble is undoubtedly a part of the Act. Salked v. Johnson, 2 Ex. 283. The meaning and effect of a preamble of a Code must be understood to overlie the whole Act, giving colour to and controlling its provisions, and by showing the Intention of the Leg slature sup lying pro tanto the rule for interpretation of these provisions. 2 A 74 (99).

Other Rules of interpretation -It is not allowable, says Vattel, to interpret what has no need of in expectation. (Law of N. S 23). Absolute sententia export-tore no indiget (2 Inst. 533) The Legislature must be intended to mean what it has plainly expressed, and consequently there is no room for construction. Per Parke I in R. v. Banbury, A. & E. 142 So a Court is bound to construe a section in a statute according to the plain meaning of the language used, unless it find, either in the section itself or in any part of the statute, anything that will either modify, or qualify or after the statutory languages even if the result of such construction leads to anomalies or be productive even by absurdity. 27 C. It = 3 C W N 660 If the language admits of no doubt or secondary meaning, it is to be obeyed 32 C W N 1136-A I R 1919 Cal 141. Where there is a positive enactment of the Indian Legislature the proper course is to examine the language of statute and to ascertain its proper meaning, uninfluenced by any consideration derived from the previous state of the law or of the English law upon which it is founded. JURISDICTION OF THE COURTS AND Ret Indicata.

9. [S. 11] The Courts shall (subject to the provisions herein contained) have jurisdiction to try all suits of a civil nature Courts to try all civil suits cognizance is either unless harred.

Extlanation.-A suit tested is a suit of a civil entirely on the decision o

Scope -The Scope of the section is very vast, including even what are known as rent suits or suits cognizable by the Revenue Courts, but for the circumstances that such suits, though civil in their nature, are expressly excluded from the jurisdiction of Civil Courts, by diot of some Special Statutes 12 A. 409 (F. B). In suits relating purely to rituals or religious observances, the Civil Couris have no jurisdiction; but the Courts are bound to enquire into the questions of religious or ritual, which are material for determining civil rights in dispute between the parties 30 M. 15=16 M. But the right to remain in the community or to exercise rights and privileges of the members of the community, is of course a civil one, and one that must be decided by the Civil Court when it is called in question. No jurisdiction in caste question -A caste is a social combination, the members of which are entitled by birth, not by enrolment, its rules consist partly of resolutions passed from time to time, but for the most part of usages handed down from generation to generation. The caste is not a religious body, though its usages, like all other Hindu usages, are based on religious feelings In religious matters, strictly so called, the members of the caste are guided by their religious preceptors and their spiritual heads. In social matters they lay down their own Caste is not a corporation or partnership. Of course a caste, regarded as a social organism, is very different from a club, but both institutions are unincorporated than to guidance upon matters relating to caste. Where according to well-established principles certain questions have been removed from the jurisdiction of the Conti, they can not be brought within the jurisdiction, on the plea that the Court has inherent jurisdiction to do what justice requires for the parties upon it. 11 Bom. In endeavouring to arrive at a correct decision as to whether the subsequent decision as to whether the subsequent suit is parallel to the previous suit, one must have regard to the position of affairs at the time when each of the suit was respectively instituted and further what would be the position of affairs when both the suits have been tried and finally decided. Explanation VI.—Where persons litigate bonafide in respect of a public right or of a private right claimed in common for themselves and others, all persons interested in such right shall, for the purposes of this section, be deemed to claim under the persons so litigating.

Principle —The rule of ret judicate is founded on ancient precedent and is dicated by wiscom which is for all time 431 A. 91-43 C. 694-20 C. W. N. 7. 38 (244). "It hash been well said" declared Lord Cole, interest ret jubilica ut sit finat thront otherwise great oppression might be done under colour and pretence of law." Priddle v Nafter, 6 Coke, 9A. Though the rule of the Code may be traced to English source, it embodies a doctries in no way opposed to the sprit of the law as expounded by the Hindu commentators Vijnantsvara and Nilkantha, who include the plea of former judgment almong those allowed by law, each citing for his purpose the plea of former judgment almong those allowed by law, each citing for his purpose the plea of former judgment almong those allowed by law, each citing for his purpose form of the rule by the Courts of rations of form, but by matter of rations of form, but by matter of rations of form, but by matter of substance within the limits allowed by law. 43 l. A. 91=43 C 694=20 C. W. N. 738 (744).

The following rule was laid down by Sir William De Grey C. I in the Dutchess of Kingston's ease, 20 How St Tr 355 (357) . "As a general principle, a transaction between two parties, in a judicial proceeding, ought not to be binding upon a third; for it would be unjust to bind any person who could not be admitted to make a defence or to examine witnesses, or to appeal from a judgment he might think erroneous; and therefore the depositions of witnesses in another cause in proof of a fact the verdict of a jury in finding the fact, and the judgment of the Court upon the facts found, although evidence against the parties, and all claiming under them are not, in general, to be used to the prejudice of strangers. From the variety of eases relating to judgments being given in evidence in eivil suits, these two deductions seem to follow as generally true; first, that the judgment of a Court of concurrent jurisdiction directly upon this point, as a plea, a bar, or as evidence conclusive, between the same parties, upon the same matter, directly in question in another court of secondly, that the judgment of a Court of exclusive jurisdiction, directly upon the point, is, in like manner, conclusive upon the same matter, between the same parties coming incidentally in question in another Court for a different purpose, But neither the judgment of a concurrent or exclusive jurisdiction is evidence of any but neither the judgment of a concutrent or excusive jurisaction is vincince of any matter inclorally cognizable, nor of any matter to be inferred by argument from the judgment "I' said Lord Kenyon C. J. in Great Head v. Bramley, 7 T. R. 456, "an action be brought and the merits of the question be discussed between the parties, and a final judgment obtained by either, the parties are concluded, and eannot canvass the same question again in another action, although perhaps some objection or argument might have been urged upon the first trial, which would have led to a different judgment." The same learned Judge said in Marriott v Hambton. 7 T. R 269: "If this action could be maintained I knew not what cause of action could ever be at rest. After recovering by process, of law there must be an end of luigation, otherwise there would be no security for any person." A party who has lost in one Court can not be permitted to add cruses of action or prayers for reliefs in another sun for the purpose of swelling the valuation of his sun and claim that the decision in the former suit does not operate as res judicala. But if it appears that his subsequent suit proceeded upon a cause of action which did not exist at the date of the previous suit, or if that caose of action existed it was one which he could not have availed of at that time, having regard to the nature of the suit as it then was, the fact that he had no v institute I a suit embracing the entire cause of action with the result that his suit was of a higher value would justify bim in claiming that the decision in the earlier suit was not operative as res judicata. If it is possible to trent the entire cruse of action upon which the latter suit is founded as divisible and if in the earlier stude of action upon which the same some is assumed as divisions and if in the earlier suit one of the component parts of the causer of action was relied upon, then the previous decision will stared as a bar to the extent of the matter involted in the earlier suit. Application of the principle of res judicata to appeals—In Lushmi v. Bhullt, A.I. R 1927 I.ah. 289-8 Lah. 384-104 Ind. Cas. 849 (F. B.) Tekchand observed: "It must therefore be settled at the very outset whether s. 11 applies to appeals or whether its operation is limited only to suits as meaning proceedings in an action in Courts of the first instance as distinguished from proceedings in appellate Courts. After a careful examination of the section I have reached the conclusion that it applies to suns only and not to appeals. It is no doubt true that in the body of the Civil Procedure Code, as well as in other enactments, the word 'suit' is often used as including proceedings before the appellate Court, and also other proceedings of civil nature. But having regard to the phraseology used in s 1r, and more particularly to Expl Il, which, it might be noted, was for the first time added in 1908, the word "Court' as used in this section can but mean the trial Court, and 'suit' signifies proceedings beginning with the plaint and ending with the decree in that Court. It seems to me does not in terms, apply to appeals, we have to fall back upon the general principles of the rule of res judicata and to see if there is anything in those principles which debars the appellate Court from hearing and deciding an issue under circumstances such as those described in the question it is, however, necessary to bear in mind that in applying

"Let us see what are the fundamental principles of res judicate and how do they affect the present case, it has already been indecated that the foundation of the rule, as understood both by ancient and modern lawyers is that a question must be once firity and finally tred by a competent Court and after this has been done all futther litigation about it should be concluded for ever between the parties. The maxim is, as has been susted above that, no one shall be vested twice over the same matter. This, to my mind, presupposes that the issue has been once fairly and finally treet in a former litigation, which has independent of the proceedings in which the same matter of the interest of the interest to me to be that the two proceedings should be so inde-

it will be a travesty of justice to sinke the hearing of the appeal against such a judgment on the ground that the findings contained in it operate as ret judicats. In such a case there can be no question of the successful party being viewed twice over the same matter, nor does the hearing of the appeal in any way militare against any rule of public policy, which requires that there must be an end of the Imgation. There is not only nothing here to aniract the priociples underlying the rule of resignificats,

Prior mortgagee's rights are not barred by res judicata. A l. R. 1929 Oudb. 463=4 Luck. 250=6 O. W. N. 1=115

A person elaiming adversely in the mortgagor and mortgagee is not a necessary party to a mortgage suit but if be is made a party, the Court has discretion whether to adjudicate on his title or not and therefore, il such party fails to assert his title he is not barred by s. 11, Explanation IV from doing so in a subsequent suit. Where in a suit on a mortgage certain persons who hand purchased the mortgaged properly in execution of a single money decree, and who happened to be also the heirs and legal representailves of the mortgagor, were made parties as such heirs and failed to plead their purchase, held that they cannot subsequently claim to redeem the properties by a separate suit subsequently. Explanation V.—To support a plea of rrs judicats it is not enough that the parties to both the suits are the same and that the same matter is in issue. The matter must have been beard and finally decided in the previous suit. Where a declaration of title in a suit is claimed merely as a step towards the decree sought, namely, a decree for possession, and the suit with regard in the relief for possession is dismissed on the ground of limitation and no finding is given on the question of title, the mere fact that the relief as to declaration has not been granted will not, under Exp. Mr. S. L. He relies upon 26 He further relies upon 12 P. R 1919 and 79 Ind. Cas. 57. All. 447 and 31 All 82 These authorities undoubtedly support his contention and, if I may say so with respect I am in full agreement with the view of law laid down in these cases. As pointed out by the Court below the contest is between the judgment-debtor and Khazana Mal, his representative, and the auction sale in which Khazana Mal purchased the property was in a mortgage decree. Therefore 26 All 447 fully applies, in fact the learned Jadges I are gone further in the subsequent Full Bench decision in 31 All $2. The Madras view seems to lend sopport to the comention of Mr. Meher Chand Mohajan, but the volume of judicial opinion on the other side is overwhelming. Allahahad, Patna, Rangoon and Bombay are all against the contention of the learned Gounsel for the appellant. There are two cares of the Labore High Court, one in 12 P. R. 1919 and the other in A. I. R. 1923 Lah. 176, which seem to go even further and lay down that an auction purchaser is not even a party to the suit. In this state of authorities I hold that Khazuna Mal had no locus standi and could not maintain the present appeal. Clauses (h) and (i) -These two clauses were substituted by Act IX of 1937 in order to give effect to the recommendation of the Royal commission on labor.
The following Statement of Objects and Reasons were appended to L. A. Bill of of 1935 which after some modifications was placed on the statute Eook as Act IN of 1935. The frame of the Bill observes: The Royal Commission on labour days attention to the indebtedness prevailing among certain clauses of workers, and expressed the view that this was due mainly for the credit enjoyed by them and the facilities afforded to creditors by the law relating to the attachment of salaries, With a view to reducing credit, the Commission recommended that wages and salaries of workmen receiving less than Rs 300 a month should be entirely exempted from attachment. Enquiries made by Government of India in consulation with Local Government, afford jest finition for action on the lines suggested by the Commission and in particulars reveal a serving State of indebtedness among cettain classes of Government employees. There is a distinction between an attachment made before judgment and one made after decree. If after attachment a decree is passed it is not necessary for the plaintiff to re-attach this property in execution, but he can immediately apply for sale, Transfers by the defendant after the attachment will be void against the plaintiff's claims enforceable under the attachment. If the suit is dismissed by the Caurt, or if any decree is passed in plaintiff's favour is reversed on appeal or aonulled on review

A review proceeding commences ordinarily with an exparte application. The Court then may either reject the application at once or may grant a rule calling on the other side to show cruse why the review should not be granted. In the second stage the rule may involve to some extent an investigation into the merits. If the rule is discharged then the case ends. If on the other hand, the rule is made absolute then the thrift stage is reached; the case is reheard on the merits and may result in a repetition of the former decree or in some variation of it. Though in one aspect, the result is the same whether the rule is discharged or on the re-bearing the original decree be repeated in law, there is a material difference; for in the latter in the former.

J. 31, Mr. Matherjee J. said; 4:We may in the control of the control connection observe that it is competent to the Court to investigate the facts in revision, if the Court is satisfied that such step is needed in the ends of justice, as was done in the case of Katlash Chandra Halder v. Biswanath Paramanick, I C. W. N. 67. But we must guard against the possible assumption that the Court may, in a matter like this, in the exercise of its revisional jurisdiction assume appellate powers. One aspect of the fundamental distinction between the exercise of appellate and revisional powers was explained in the case of Shivanath v. floom Akainada, 7 B. 341. A Court in the exercise of its appellate jorishiciton investigates the facts and if necessary substitute its own appreciation of the evidence for that of the primary Court. But when the Court as a Court of revision looks into the evidence, it does so with a view to determine whether the subordinate Court has assumed jurisdiction which it did not possess, or declined a jurisdiction which it, did possess or has in the exercise of its jurisdiction acted illegally or with material irregularity. If this distinction were averlooked, the superior Court might, in the name of revisional jorisdiction, exercise appellate powers.

Where persuant to a decree or order of the Court one party has been compelled to pay money or transfer proparty in turnic another party it would be unconscionable upon the reversal of the decree order that the party who had received the money or property through the wrongs act of the Court should be held entitled to retain such money or property as against the party who had wrongfully been ordered to pay it and who was claiming restitution. All that is necessary is that the final decree should provide for a right in bim to apply for restitution. In the above case Natim Ali J. observed "The next contention of the learned advocate is that in any view of the case the road being public roads plaintiff is entitled to bring suits to remove the obstructions, even if the special damage pleaded by him is not established. The obvious answer to his argument is that in that case he would established. The obvious answer to his argument is that in that case ne wome he hit by section 91 of the Civil Procedure Code as the acts committed by the defendants amounts to public nuisance. The learned advocate for the appellant, relying on the decisions in the case of Mausber Hatan v Mohammad Zandan (52 f. A. 61 = 29 C. W. N. 426) and Mandakini Debi v, Batanta Kumani Dibi (52 f. A. 61 = 20 C. W. N. 426) and Mandakini Debi v, Batanta Kumani Dibi (52 f. A. 61 = 20 C. W. N. 426) and Mandakini Debi v, Batanta Kumani Dibi (52 f. A. 61 = 20 C. W. N. 426) and Mandakini Debi v, Batanta Kumani Dibi (52 f. A. 61 = 20 C. W. N. 426) and Mandakini Debi v, Batanta Kumani Dibi (52 f. A. 61 = 20 C. W. N. 426) and Mandakini Debi v, Batanta Kumani Dibi observations, and the properties of the control of road and for perpetual injunction against the sunnis interfering with them, Lord Dunedin observed that special damage other than the obstruction of the procession was not needed. The facts of the second case show that the plaintiff in that suit was put to much inconvenience as no large articles could be brought into her house along the public road which was the only means of entering into her house on account of the narrowing down of the passage by the defendant by the erection of the wall and privy. In view of these facts fatk, relying on the said observation of Letd Danidin in Mature Hasaris case ($2.1. A. 61=20 C. W. N. 485) held that no special damage was required further than the plaintiff's inability or carry large articles into her house owing to obstructions. The plaintiff in the present sair being one of the members of the public, is equally affected by the obstruction with the other members of the public, is equally affected by the control of the mature of the public is the safeted by the obstruction and therefore having the same interest in the matter. Consequently the proper coarse for him was to bring a representants suit in conformity with the provisions of Order 1, r. 8 of the C. P. Code. See Baltinan v. Sisteam (25 C. W. N. 9, 95), and Kenaravelu v. Rama ramant (37 C. W. N. 853 P. C. = 6 M. 6571).

Explanation.- For the purposes of this rule an obligation and a collateral security for its performance and successive claims arising under the same obligation shall be deemed respectively to constitute but one cause of action.

Illustration.

A lets a house to B at a yearly rent of Rs. 1,200. The rent for the whole of the years 1905, 1906 and 1907 is due and unpaid. A sues B in 1908, only for the rent due for 1906. A shall not afterwards sue B for the rent due for 1905 or 1907.

Principle.-The real principle orderlying cases under this rule is that if the several items which make up the claim are of the same nature and form part of the same course of dealing, so as to pass under the same description and form part of one transaction, they must be considered as one cause of action and must be joined io one suit, though they may have arisen out of several contracts. But claims which are diverse in character, which do not answer the same description and which would require a different class of evidence to support them, may be made subject of different suits, though they may arise out of the same transaction, 12 C. 339. This rule is directed against two evits, viz., the splitting of claims and the splitting of remedies to respect of one cause of action, and is founded upon the maxim that no one shall be vexed twice for one and the same cause. In order that this section one shall be vexed twice for one and the same cause. In order that this section may apply, not merely must both suits arise out of the same cause of actioe, but they must be between the same parties under whom they or any of them claim. 6. Ind. Scandalous —Allegations made in a pleading for the mere purpose of abusing or prejudicing the opposite party and any indecent or offensive nutries are scandalous. Chritici v. Chritici, L. "It is well settled as pointed out in a work of high abusing (Daniell on Chancery Practice, Vol. I, p. 336) that scandalous matter should be avoided in pleadings and any proceedings before the Court may be objected to for scandal and the scandalous matter ordered to be expunged. The Court may take action on its own motion or upon the application of the agrieved prive. But he question still remains what is the test to be applied to determine whether a mutter is scandalous. There can be no doubt that allegations of dishonesty are scandalous but they cannot be treated as such if they are relevant to the issue, for in the words of Lord Justice Cotton in Fisher v Oun, (8 Ch. D. 645 at p. 653) 'honling can be scandalous which is relevant,' or as put by Lord Justice Brett in Millington v. Lorring (6 Q. B. D. 196), the mere fact that these paragraphs stated a scandalous fact does not make them scandalous. The sole question is at Lord Chimeller Scitter, (L. R. 8 Ch. ORDER XI.

Discovery and Inspection. 1. [R. S. C. O. 31, r. 1.] In any suit the plaintiff or defendant by leave Discovery by interrogatories of the Court may deliver interrogatories in writing for the examination of the oppositue matters of any one or more of such parties, and such interrogatories when delivered shall have a note at the foot thereof stating which of such interrogatories each of such person is required to answer: Provided that no party shall deliver more than one set of interrogatories to the same party without an order for that purpose: Provided also that interrogatories which do not relate to any matters in question in the suit shall be deemed irrelevant, notwithstanding that they might be admissible on the oral cross-examination of a witness.

Scope.—Interrogatories cannot be delivered without the leave of the Court, for the examination of the opposite parties. The words "opposite parties" mean parties between whom there is some right to adjust in the sout. Shaw v. Suith, 18 Q. B. D. 193 (198,200); Molloy v. Kilby, 15 Ch. D. 162. It may include co-defendants, if there be some dispute between them. Birchall v. Dirth, (1913) 2 Ch. 375. 2. [R. S. C. O. 31, r. 2] On an application for leave to deliver interrogatories, the particular interrogatories to be submitted.

On an application for leave to deliver interrogatories, the particular interrogatories proposed to be delivered shall be submitted to the Court. In deciding upon such application, the Court shall take into account any offer, which may be made by the party sought to be interrogated to deliver particulars, or to make admissions, or to produce documents relating to the matters in question, or any of them, and leave shall be given as to such only of the interrogatories submitted as the Court shall consider necessary either for disposing fairly of the suit or for saving coats.

Scope—Under rule 2, the Judge has not any power to settle interrogatories, but he can decide what should be administered. The decide in English cases with regard to the more extensive powers of Courts in matters of probate, seem to imply that the structure relevency in the interrogatories may not be required, but the Courts certainly be obliged to exclude anything offensive or improper in the same way as in any other case, 43, C 300=32, C L. A. I. R. 1935 Lab. 982.

Olause (5).—The words "first hearing of the suit" in Order 13, rule 1, are obvlously different from the words "the first hearing of the suit" under Order 14, rule 1, clause 5, because paries have not to produce their documents till issues are framed. "First hearing" would clearly extend at least up to the period of the "first hearing" of the suit referred to in Order 13, rule 1. Hence it channot be said that the powers conferred by Order 14, rule 1(5) only extend to the first discussion of issues and not to any subsequent ones which intervene between 'the first hearing as meant by Order 14, rule 1, clause 5 and the first hearing as meant by Order 13, rule (1). Court may notwithstanding such default, proceed to decide the case forthwith. It is obvious that the scope of rule 2 is quite distinct from that of rule 3. Rule 3 default; the words "not with standing such default" clearly imply that the Court is to proceed with the disposal of the suit inspito of the default upon such materials as are before it. Rule 2, on the other hand speaks of the disposal of the suit, and undoubtedly includes cases in which there might not be any materials hefore the Court to enable it to pronounce a decision on the merits. It is clear that the conlingency contemplated in rule 2 may happen in a case which falls within the letter of rule 3 It may well happen, for instance, that a plaintiff to whom time has heen granted to produce evideoce, not only fails to do so, but also fails to appear. In such a case, if there are no materials on the record, the appropriate procedure to follow would be that laid down in rule; but if there are meterials on the record, the Court ought to proceed under rule 3. 34 C. 235 (237, 238), see also 41 C. 956=18 C.W.N. 775. The proper way of construing rule 3 is, that where no default occurring under rule 2, default occurs under rule 3, Court should proceed under the latter provision and dispose of a case on merits; but If the default consists in non-appearance, it is rule 2, which deals with such a case specifically that in terms applies, A. I. R. 1936 Mad. 675=70 M. L. J. 638 = 1936 M. W. N. 629=43 L. W. 738=1936 M. W. N. 589 see also A. f. R. 1936 Al. 670=1936 A. L. J., 902. In order to attract the provisions of Order 17, 13 of the Civil Procedure Code, two conditions must coexist. First, the application for adjournment must he at the instance of the party to suit applying for the production of evidence and secondly, there must he some materials on record on which the Court can proceed to pass judgment. When these two conditions are not satisfied, the proper course is to pass an order under rule 2 of Order 17. 39 swe saussued, the proper course is to pass an order under rule 2 of Order 17, 39 C.W. In either case what is contemplated in these two rules is the procedure on the first day on which the hearing of suit, as distinguished from mueriocutory proceedings takes place. There is no reason why the position of an assignee decree-holder under Order 21, rule 16, seeking to execute his decree shoold in any way be inferior to the position of an original decree holder in regard to the provisions contained in sub-clause (3). A L. R. 1934 Sind 205. The provisions of Order 21, tule 2 (3), are highly technical in that they preclude, on the execution side, proof of a payment or adjustment which bas not been certified or recorded according to sub-rules (1) and (2). These provisions must therefore, be construed very strictly. A. I. R. 1935 Nag. 230. Until the name of the transferre of a decree is formally substituted in place of the original decreebolder, the decree-holder referred to an Order 21, rule 2 (1), is the only person in whose favour the decree is passed and whose name stands on the face of the decree in the record of the Court. Transferee of the decree is not a decree-holder unless he is recognized by the Court. Where therefore an adjustment embodied in an agreement is made by the judgment-debtors with the transferee of a decree when he is not brought on the record as the decree bolder in place of the original decreeholder, Order 21, rule 2 (2), does not impose upon the judgment-debtors, the duty of having the adjustment recorded as certified and adjustment can be successfully

The object of the rule is that, should a plaintiff in a pending suit succeed therein, then there can be an adjustment of the decree or claim by that plaintiff against the decree obtained against him in the other suit in the same Court without it being necessary for the successful plaintiff in the pending suit to take out execution proceedings. Execution in the other suit is stayed so that the rights of the party can he adjusted. In cases where it is likely that the decree-holder io the other suit may take steps which might deprive the plaintiff in the pending suit of the fruits of any decree which he obtains, an order staying the execution in the other suit should be made. The rule is not an imperative one; and the Court has a discretion either to grant the relief asked for, namely, stay the execution of the decree or to refuse it. This rule is also applicable where plainted has brought a suit against another who is an assignee decree-holder of a decree obtained against the plaintiff, A. I. R. 1936 Mad. 102=70 M. L. Preliminary decree is foreclosure sunt.

"2. (1) In a suit for foreclosure, if the plaintiff succeeds, the Court shall pass a preliminary decree—

- (a) ordering that an account be taken of what was due to the plaintiff at the date of such decree for—
 - (i) principal and interest on the mortgage,
 - (ii) the costs of suit, if any, awarded to him, and

(iii) other costs, charges and expenses properly incurred by him up to that date in respect of his mortgage security, together with interest thereon; or

- (b) declaring the amount so due at that date, and
- (c) directing ---

(f) that, if the defendant pays into Court the amounts o found or declared due on or before such date as the Court may fix within six months from the date on which the Court confirms and countersigns the account taken under clause (a), or from the date on which such amount is declared in Court under clause (b), as the case may be, and thereafter pays such amount as may be adjudged due in respect of subsequent costs, charges and expenses as provided in rule 10, together with subsequent interest on such sums respectively as provided in rule 11, the plaintiff shall deliver up to the defendant, or to such per son as the defendant appoints, all documents in his possession or power relating to the mortgaged property, and shall, if so required, re-transfer the property to the defendant at his cost free from the mortgage and from all incumbrances created by the plaintiff or any person claiming under him, or, where the plaintiff claims by derived title, by those under whom he claims, and shall also, if necessary, put the defendant in possession of the property; and

(ii) that, if payment of the amount found or declared due under or by the preliminary decree is not made on or before the date so fixed, or the defendant fails to pay, within such time as the Court may fix, the amount adjudged due in respect of subsequent costs, charges, expenses and interest, the plaintiff shall be entitled to apply for a final decree debarring the defendant from all right to redeem the property.

(2) The Court may, on good cause shown and upon terms to be fixed by the Court, from time to time, at any time before a final decree is passed, extend the time fixed for the payment of the amount found or declared due under sub-rule (1) or of the amount adjudged due in respect of subsequent costs, charges, expenses and interest.

(3) Where, in a suit for foreclosure, subsequent mortgagees or persons deriving title from, or subrogated to the rights of, any such morgagees are joined as parties, the preliminary decree shall provide for the adjudication of the respective rights and liabilities of the parties to the suit in the manner and form set forth in Form No. 9 or Form No. 10, as the case may be, of Appendix D with such variations as the circumstances of the case may require.

N, B.-For local amendments in Bombay and Rangoon - Vide infra.

Notes,-Rules 2 to 8 have been added by Act 21 of 1929. The reason of the amendment has been thus stated by the Special Committee :-

This order relates to mortgage suits and its provisions were originally in the Transfer of Property Act (section 85 to 99), but were transferred to the Code of Civil Procedure in 1908. The amendment of the Transfer of Property Act particularly the provisions relating to mortgages, necessitates the amendment of rules 2 to 8, 10, tr and 15 of the Order.

We propose to make the following amendments in this rule, viz :-

(1) It should be expressly stated that the decree passed under this rule is "preliminary."

(2) In clause (a) of the present rule, the Court is merely directly directled to take an account of what would be due to the plaintiff on account of (a) principal and interest on the mortgage and (b) the costs of the suit. Under sections 72 and 76 of Cinal money. Clause (a) is therefore, amended to make it clear that in taking an account sums spent by a mortgagee for necessary costs, charges and expenses in respect of the mortgage-security, together with interest thereon, must be taken into

(3) Clause (a) of the present rule 2 provides that the account of the sum due to the plaintiff will be taken up to the date fixed for payment in the preliminary decree. The date so fixed is to be within six months from the date of the decree. Clause (b) however, which relates to the declaration by a Court of the amount due to a Court has to fix a date for the months, no provision is made for mortgage security subsequent to the date of the declaration or the decree. The seems anomalous. There is no reason why a mortgage should lose subsequent costs, charges and expenses where the Court declares the amount. The scheme of Order XXXIV of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, is to draw a clear distinction between a preliminary and a final decree; rule 2 is amended to make it clear that the amount to be declared or found due on taking accounts should be up to the date of the preliminary decree. The defendant will then be in a position to know what sum he has to pay in order to claim redemption. Care is taken to provide in clause (c) of sub-rule (i) of the amended rule that after tendering the amount so declared or found to be due, the defendant has to pay the amount which the Court may adjudge for subsequent interest and sobsequent costs, charges and expenses, Rules to and 11 have been amended to empower a Court to adjudge the amount due in respect of such interest and costs.

- (4) Although clause (a) of this rule refers to the date fixed for payment of the amount found to be due on taking accounts, clause (c) refers the date within six months from the date of the declaration of the amount due by the Court under clause (b). This appears to be an error. The date fixed for payment must be within six months from the date when the Court declares the amount due or, where it directs an account is to be taken from the date when such account is confirmed by the Court. Our amendment makes this clear.
- (5) As the mortgagor or any other person seeking redemption has to bear all costs and expenses of the redemption, in clause (c) of sub-rule (1) it is made clear that the costs of re-conveyance or re transfer by the mortgage on payment of the amount due by the mortgagor shall be borne by the mortgagor or such other person.
- amount due to a mortgage ill the d cluse (c) it is made clear that after bound to pay subsequent costs and date of acous payment, which may be on or before date fixed in the preliminary decree or such other date to which the time for payment may have been extended under sub-rule (c). It has been well established that the mortgage can add to mortgage-money the amount spent by him between the passing of the preliminary decree and the final decree (f. L. R. 4.1 C. 4.48).
- (8) It has been held that the right of a mortgagor to redeem the mortgaged property subsists till a final decree for foreclosure to assed (i. L. R. 27 Cal. 705). Default in payment on the day originally fixed in the preliminary decree for payment or on the day to which the time for payment may have been extended by the Court does not five fact extinguish the mortgagor's right of redemption. It is open to a mortgagor to apply for extension of time till a final decree for foreclosure has been passed, and he can do so even after the expiry of the period once fixed (i. L. R. 3) Mad. 88: 128 Bom to)

made, the defendant will be sub-rule (2) of the amende

she amount due, the planntiff will have only a right to apply for a decree for foreclosure. We propose to make it clear that the right of the plaintiff to file an application arises not only when the amoon adjudged due in the preliminary decree is not paid in full, but also if any portion of the soms for subsequent costs and subsequent interest remains to be paid.

(9) Rules 2-8 of Order XXXIV do not specifically provide for decrees in suits for foreclosure or sale in which, besides the mortgager other persons who are entitled to redeem, such as subsequent mortgagees or persons subrogated to their rights, are joined as paties. This omission was sought to be remedied by providing forms for decrees in such suits-Forms Nos. 9 to 11 in Appendix D to the Code. Under Order XLVIII, rule 1 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, forms are not binding and ean be varied by the Courts. An express provisions in Order XXXIV itself is necessary to give full statutory force to the forms. As such eases will be of varied type and cannot all be anticipated, it will suffice to enact in Order XXXIV that in such cases the rights of the parties will be regulated in accordance with the forms given in the Appendix, with such variations as the circumstances of the case may require. Provisions to that effect are embodied in sub-rule (3) of rule 2 and sub-rule 3 of rule 4. In a redemption suit by a mortgagor such difficulties will not arise. Consequential amendments have been made in rules 7 and 8.

We propose to amend this rule in accordance with the alterations made in rule 2. It is expressly stated that the decree made under this rule is final. For the reasons stated in paragraph (5) above, it is made clear in this rule that the payment by the mortgagor can be made at any time till the final decree for foreclosure is actually passed. It is also made clear that on payment of the amount declared or found to be due in the preliminary deeree, together with the amount due for the subsequent re-transfer the mortgaged property. The provisions e mortgager has been added to avoid difficults.

gaged properly absolutely in the mortgagee, and to extinguish not only the debt due on the mortgage but all liability arising in respect of the suit brought to enforce it. It is desirable that foreclosure, which is an excaptional remedy, should extinguish in toto the whole of the liability of the mortgagor.

We propose to amend this rule, which relates to a preliminary decree for sale, on the lines of rule 2. As by the amendment in the Transfer of Property Act it is proposed to allow the remedy of foreclosure only in the case of a mortgage by conditional sale and an anomalous mortgage providing the remedy of foreclosure, the power of the Court to grant the alternative relief of sale can only be exercised in the case of such an anomalous mortgage. By the very nature of the mortgage by conditional sale the Court cappet order a sale of the property. We propose to amend clause (2) by stating clearly that it applies only to an anomalous mortgage which provides for foreclosure. Sub rule (3) is added to rule 4 on the same lines as rule 2 (3). It provides for a case where, besides the mortgagor, there are other parties in a suit for sale.

It should, however, he noted that in the case of a decree for sale there is no reason why the Court should extend the time for payment. Even after the sale is held, there is an opportunity to a mortgagor to redeem before the confirmation of the sale. No necessity, therefore exists for empowering Courts to enlarge the time before passing a final decree for sale (I. L. R. 20 All 354).

Section 89 of the Transfer of Property Act, which was replaced by rule 5 of Order XXXIV, Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, contained at the end the words "and thereupon the defendant's right to redeem and the security shall both be extinguished". These words gave rise to the view that an order absolute under the section had the effect of extinguishing the rights arising out of the mortgage and

m, 45 I. A. 130; Matru the words quoted above · corresponding rule 5 of right of a mortgagor to redeem is not extinguished by the mere passing of a final decree (42 All. 517, see also Subha v. Gulum Saflar, 48 10. 485 at y. 20. We propose to lay it down definitely that the right of a mortgagor to redeem subsists till the confirmation of the sale held in execution of the decree passed against him under rule 4 or role 7. We have, however, made a provision for compensating the purchaser when a mortgagor seeks to redeem after the sale has taken place but before it is confirmed.

The words 'any such sale' in rule 6 and its position after rules 3 to 5 led to the view being taken that the personal decree for the balance of the amount due to a mortgagor after the sale can only be passed in a suit by a mortgagee far sale, and not in a redemption but by a mortgagor, although in a redemption decree in default of payment by the mortgagor a sale of the mortgaged property can be ordered. In 1. L. R. 42 Cal, 294. It is held that as this rule does not require an application by a mortgagee for the passing of a personal decree for the balance of the mortgagemoney, so period of limitation applies for claiming such relief. This is not followed by other Courts (t. L. R. 40 All, 541). This point is made clear by lintroducing the words "on application by the plaintff in role 6, and the words "on application by the defendant" in rule &A .- Report of the Special Committee.

Report of the Select Committee .- "We are not convinced by the reasons given by the Special Committee for deciding not to insert a provision giving the Court power to extend the time for the payment of the amount due from a mortgagor after a preliminary decree for the sale of the mortgaged property has been passed, We think this is a power which the Court may well be trusted to exercise in proper cases and on proper terms. # Order of reference on agreements to refer.

17. [S. 523.] (1) Where any persons agree in writing that any differApplication to file in Court agreement in refer to arbitration, the parties to the agreement, or any of them, may apply to any Court having jurisdictian in the matter to which the agreement relates, that the agreement be filed in Court.

(2) The application shall be in writing and shall be numbered and registered as a suit between one or mare of the parties finterested or claiming to be interested as plaintiff or plaintiffs and the athers or other of them as defendants or defendant, if the application has been presented by all the parties, or, if otherwise, between the application as plaintiff and the after parties as defendants.

(3) On such application being made the Court shall direct notice thereof to be given to all the parties in the agreement, ather than the applicants, requiring such parties in show cause, within the time specified in the notice, why the agreement should not be filed.

(4) Where no sufficient cause is shown, the Court shall order the agreement to be filed, and shall make an order of reference to the arbitrator appointed in accordance with the provisions of the agreement or, if there is no such provision and the parties cannot agree, the Court may appoint an arbitrator.

Scope .- The scope of this pata is no more than this : that where an agreement of reference to arbitration has been entered into by the parties but the arbitrators have not so far functioned, the Court has power in enforce to agreement against the parties where the arbitrators are ready and willing to act in terms of the reference. Para 17, far from implying an ouster of jurisdiction, predicates that the arbitrators have the jurisdiction to act on the reference and the Court should step in and ask them to exercise their powers as arbitrators if they are agreeable to do so. 1932 A. L. J. 33t=137 Ind. Cas 198=A. I. R. 1932 All 348=A. L. R. 1932 A 727. This para and the sub-equent paras refer to cases where the parties agree in writing to refer to arbitration any difference between them independently of the Court. A proceeding under this para sloes not commence with a plaint. Sub-para (2) of para 17, however, provides that an application to file in Court an agreement to refer to arbitration shall be numbered and registered as a suit between one or more of the parties interested or claiming to be interested as plaintiff or plaintiffs, and others or other of them as defendant or defendants This provision does not convert the application into a suit for all purposes. When the law says that the application shall be numbered and registered as a suit it implies that it is not in fact a suit. If it were really a suit, it must proporto vigore have all the attributes of a suit; and it would be wholly redundant to enact that it shall be numbered and commences
